

UNIVERSITY BACCALAUREATE.

Elder Nephi L. Morris Delivers an Impressive Address in the Assembly Hall.

POINTS OUT CURSE OF WEALTH.

Says It Often Severs the Dearest Ties Of Kinship—Graduates Urged to Self-Effort.

The thirty-fifth annual commencement exercises of the University of Utah were ushered in last night, when Elder Nephi L. Morris delivered the baccalaureate address at the Assembly hall. The hall was well filled and beautifully decorated in the national colors, and the address was listened to with marked attention throughout.

The speaker impressed upon the graduates the fact that they were just entering the great school of experience; that they had not learned everything but had merely learned how to learn. "Self-effort" said he, "is the key to success. It is the development of man and all that he earns in this world is earned by earnest effort and continuous toil. Men should work for eternal truth, liberty and immortality, rather than for earthly things."

"The greatest curse of wealth," continued the speaker, "is that it creates too much difference between those who have it and those who have it not. Too often the possession of wealth means the placing of a barrier between friends, even the sundering of love between brothers."

Elder Morris told the graduates that their alma mater expected much of them. Some, he said, may become indolent and fail to pursue their studies, hopes and ambitions, but others, he felt, would work, be patient with misfortunes and develop a higher ideal, a nobler character and a soul filled with inspiration. In conclusion he urged the graduates not to disbelieve the virtues of true manhood and womanhood.

During the evening the University glee club gave several selections and Miss Edna Coray rendered an organ solo. The opening and closing prayers were by Prof. James E. Talmage and Milton Benson respectively.

FROM THE ISLANDS.

Chaplain Marvine Receives a Pleasant Transfer—Pay Day Snag.

Chaplain Walter Marvine of the Twelfth Infantry, who was ordered to the Philippines for service there with his regiment, has made a happy escape from further island service, and has been retransferred to the artillery corps from which he was transferred to the infantry arm in October last. The latest order is that he proceed to Fort Adams, near Newport, R. I., to report for duty there. The chaplain becomes a major under the new law giving the 10 senior chaplains that rank. Maj. and Mrs. Marvine have made many friends in this city, and they will be much missed, especially in religious circles, where they have been so prominent.
Maj. Marvine is a graduate of Amherst college and of the Berkeley Divinity school at Middletown, Conn. He is a member of the Salt Lake Ministerial association.
Eight discharged soldiers from M company, Twenty-ninth Infantry, tried in vain to get their pay warrants cashed yesterday, at the local banks, and had to go to the post to stay over night, and get something to eat. The banks did not want to bother with government paper. The men will have to get their paper discounted.

Private A. W. Yowell of the Twenty-second light battery at Fort Douglas has been transferred to the Fourteenth light battery at Fort Sheridan.

PROTECT TOMATO PLANTS.

Inspector Sorenson Advises Growers
How to Do It.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 30, 1904.— Editor Deseret News: Now is the time when the early tomato plant suffers, from a small black beetle or tomato hopper. The remedy is to spray the plant with arsenical spray or paris green and lime. The same is the case with the early cabbage plants, which are subject to great ravages of a green worm, hard to find, as it is green as the leaf of the plant, but when you see the plant has been eaten you know something has done it. Use the above or the No. 1 spray.
On the other hand, if your cabbage plant is affected with lice, the paris green is no good for that complaint, nor is any other arsenical spray, but you must apply No. 3, kerosene emulsion.

All bearing apple and pear trees should now be sprayed the second time with the arsenical spray or paris green.
JOHN P. SORENSON,
Inspector of Pests.

MAYOR MORRIS' VETO.

"Guardian" Writes of Some of the Evils To Which the Young Are Exposed.

Editor News: Will you permit an old subscriber to your paper to express through its columns, his appreciation of the act of Mayor Morris in vetoing the proposition to allow liquor to be sold to women at the Salt Palace? Many persons who do not read the city council proceedings were dumbfounded to learn that such a measure could ever have passed the council, and the Mayor might well express his astonishment that it was allowed to reach him. It is to be hoped that the mayor and the majority of the city council realize this truth—that the decent, law-abiding people of Salt Lake, regardless of religion, and largely regardless of politics, put them where they are in the strong hope that they would give the city a cleaner administration than it had had of late years.
It was the anti-saloon, anti-gambling, anti-prostitution, and anti-rooming house elements of the city that placed the present administration in power, and they are watching it closely.

I may add that there are few things more dangerous to the morals of the young of our community, than the dances patronized by mixed classes, which go on in various parts of the city, especially out in the suburbs. They are bad enough in all conscience, without the attendant sale of liquor. The number of young people who patronize these mixed and motley gatherings in the outlying places, unattended by parents or chaperones, is something that calls for the most careful consideration of those who have the welfare of the young at heart. If the parents who allow their children to go out without restraint knew the influences and the dangers to which they are subjected, they would surely exercise more care.
If parents want an object lesson on these matters, let them attend some of the dances that go on in these outlying points, and they will have their eyes opened.
SALT LAKE CITY, MAY 27.
GUARDIAN.

AN EXCESS OF BOYS.

Weekly Health Report Shows 25 Males
And 11 Females.

Bargains in Fancy Silks and Wool Dress Goods

It's not always the biggest reductions that become the best bargains.

The first regular prices are reasonable ones; the reduced prices, therefore, are real bargains. No false claims are made, and we are ready to stand by our reductions—by the qualities, which, after all, regulate the question of a bargain.

There has been so much rainy weather this season, so much cool weather, that the demand for Shirt Waist Suits and Wool Dress Fabrics has not been as lively as was, earlier in the season, anticipated. A heavy stock near the end of a season forces vigorous sales—the sales which women welcome.

As regards these lines, it has been conceded all spring by shoppers that our lines are exceptionally desirable, particularly inviting, especially seasonable. A genuine lowering of prices on fabrics of the highest character of magnificence, comprising extensive assortments, becomes an event of importance to economical shoppers. The sale starts on Tuesday morning and preparation has been made to care for the rush.
